

Smuggling Flowers into the Ghetto or Verbotenes Grün. This picture-story depicts a female ghetto-laborer carrying field flowers under her coat into the ghetto. Erich Lichtblau recalls: It was forbidden to keep flowers at home or cut them, but people did that. Vegetables were also a valuable commodity to do business with in the ghetto. Terezin, 1943.

